Tammy joined BCPSLS in June 2016 as the Provincial Coordinator. She is responsible for implementing and sustaining BCPSLS re:act, a tool that assists BC's regional health authorities in identifying cases, supporting investigations, and tracking outcomes of adult abuse, neglect, and self-neglect. In 2018 the re:act tool was awarded a Leading Practice for Excellence in Patient Engagement for Patient Safety.

Tammy also partners with content experts across the province to co-design ongoing improvements to BCPSLS forms and taxonomy in pursuit of better data and an enhanced user experience.

In Tammy's previous role as PSLS Coordinator for Fraser Health she supported programs to identify trends that sparked improvement efforts and system wide changes—many of which are featured in BCPSLS Central blog stories.
